

Wreckage Of Big Plane Found; Nine Crashes Take 209 Lives

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—The snow-covered wreckage of a giant C124 Globemaster which carried its 52 passengers to their doom Nov. 22 has been found by an educator-flier high on the icy slopes of an Alaskan mountain.

It was located only a few hours after another military transport had crashed yesterday at Tacoma, Wash., bringing fiery death to 36 of the 39 persons aboard.

And it was one of nine military planes with 209 persons aboard which have crashed with disastrous results or disappeared in the great circle from Korea to Montana in the past three weeks.

No Sign Of Life
Official Washington has taken notice of the tragic series, which has wiped out whole families, and ordered an investigation of its Alaska-connected radio navigation aids and communications systems.

Dr. Terris Moore, president of the University of Alaska and a skilled pilot, flew to the Alaska C124 wreckage with a companion whose identity has not been learned. They landed near the mountain's summit in Moore's ski-equipped light plane.

His description of the scene was a terse, "There is no sign of life—no life." The comment, radioed to planes which circled overhead, told nothing more. But Air Force pilots said the wreckage was covered by snow, with only the tail showing.

They speculated that a snowslide occurred after the plane, en route here to Elmendorf Air Force Base, from McChord Air Force Base, Tacoma, rammed into Mt. Gannett 1,000 feet below the peak's 9,100-foot summit.

First Tragedy Nov. 7
High winds kept Moore and his companion from leaving the wreck scene, but they were dropped supplies to tide them over the night. Meanwhile Air Force rescue officials were studying the feasibility of taking a trail crew in to the crash scene.

The big C-124 on Mt. Gannett killed the largest number in the series of accidents and disappearances which started Nov. 7 when a C119 cargo plane hit a mountain top on a flight from Elmendorf to Big Delta, Alaska. Nineteen men died.

On Nov. 12 a Navy patrol bomber crashed near Shelton, Wash., with the loss of 11 lives. Two days later, another C119 crashed into another mountain 18 miles east of Seoul on a flight from Tokyo with 44 men aboard. None survived.

Eleven men were lost and seven rescued Nov. 15 when a C46 dove into the Sea of Japan near the coast of Korea. That night, 20 men aboard another C119 disappeared on a flight from Anchorage to Kodiak. Search still is being conducted for that airplane and its human cargo.

Mile From Goal
The next crackup was at the eastern end of the trail on Nov. 17. A fourth C119 crashed near Billings, Mont., killing half of the 16 men on it. Then, the C124 which was found yesterday disappeared and two days later a Royal Canadian Air Force bomber crashed on Vancouver Island. Eight men perished, two survived.

Finally, the C54 from Anchorage crashed at Tacoma early yesterday. It was loaded with servicemen, their wives and children. They were returning from Alaskan assignments, to belated Thanksgiving dinners.

A mile from their goal, fog and possibly a disabled plane brought them to a fiery end.

Senate Snooper Committee Will Check On FCC

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) indicated today the Federal Communication Commission will come under scrutiny of the Senate investigations subcommittee in the new Congress.

As the senior Republican member, McCarthy is in line for the chairmanship of both the investigations unit and its parent body, the Senate Committee on Government Operations.

Wastefulness Charged
He told a reporter he feels the investigations subcommittee should make at least a preliminary check into complaints from any senator, Republican or Democrat, to determine whether a full-scale probe is warranted.

McCarthy said he already has received requests from two Republican senators and one Democratic senator—none of whom he named—for an inquiry into the FCC.

He said they wanted the committee to look into what they called incompetence and wastefulness by the agency and "favoritism" in granting licenses to radio and television stations.

McCarthy emphasized that he has "no opinion" as to the merit of these complaints.

Alert Staff Wanted

The senator also disclosed that he hopes to expand the membership of the Senate investigations subcommittee from seven to nine in the Republican-controlled Congress beginning Jan. 3. He said he also wants to set up a number of task forces within the subcommittee to keep check on government activities in specific fields.

An alert committee and staff "can do an important job in discouraging graft and corruption such as we've had in past years," McCarthy said.

He added that, regardless of which party is in control, government graft and corruption are always possible when "close to 100 billion dollars" is being spent.

Boy, 3, And Dog Adrift In Skiff

FT. WALTON, Fla. (AP)—Three-year-old James Adair is safe on shore after drifting for hours in a skiff, but his little dog Missie—hero of the ordeal—is missing.

Doctors planned to keep James in a hospital for several days to make sure he suffered no ill effects from exposure in near-freezing weather.

The child and Missie, part spitz, were taken along on a fishing trip in Choctawhatchee Bay Thursday.

Public information officers at Eglin Air Force Base said the boy's mother, Mrs. Ruth Adair, 24, was tossed overboard when the boat pitched in choppy waters. Robert Glass, 23, an Eglin civilian employee, jumped in to rescue her, the officers related.

The man and woman finally reached a buoy and were rescued, but the skiff with the boy and dog drifted away.

More than 14 hours after James went out in the skiff, and 15 miles away, an Air Force sergeant heard a dog barking early yesterday.

It was Missie, remaining with her young master in the grounded boat.

Sgt. John Cornett of Hindman, Ky., said he cried loose James' desperately gripping hands from the skiff, and with other searchers carried the child through the swamps.

Missie became lost while the party marched back through the marsh. A group of Eglin air police volunteered to hunt for the dog while they were off duty.

Snow Stops Santa

HAMBURG, N. Y. (AP)—Ten inches of snow was too much for Santa. His scheduled ride through town yesterday on a float, with gifts for the kiddies, was postponed until Monday—weather permitting.

Winnie Ruth's Escape Has Police Baffled

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Winnie Ruth Judd, wily, red-haired trunk murderer, has apparently vanished without leaving a single major clue.

Tired, bleary-eyed police admitted early today they are no nearer solving the riddle of her sixth escape from the Arizona State Hospital than they were Thursday night when she slid out of a hole cut in a heavy window screen and disappeared in the darkness.

Two Nurses Hunted
"Every lead we've run down has washed out," said Herb Barnes, sheriff's deputy in charge of the hunt.

"We have some others we are still working on and we are still checking her many acquaintances."

Officers are operating on the theory she had help and it might have come from friends. They have been unsuccessful in locating two nurses formerly employed at the hospital. They are

Lewis Unworried
NEW YORK (AP)—John L. Lewis boarded a ship for South America last night, apparently unworried about a pending government soft coal wage decision which could top 40 cents a day off a new union contract. The United Mine Workers chief was headed for Brazil, where he will speak at a meeting Dec. 12 of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

Top Men Oppose
End Of Controls

WASHINGTON (AP)—A proposal to lift wage-price controls generally within 90 days placed the nation's assistant price stabilizer in opposition to his bosses today.

Edward F. Phelps Jr., assistant of the Office of Price Stabilization, sent his suggestion yesterday to Economic Stabilizer Roger L. Putnam, who allied it "premature."

Phelps's memo urged decontrol by March of "all consumer goods and services, including food and with the possible exception of the major refined petroleum products." It recommended continuation of price controls on items used directly in the defense effort.

All wage and salary controls should then be scrapped, Phelps added, because "ordinary equity would not tolerate continuing comprehensive age and salary control if nearly all price controls were suspended."

Putnam turned thumbs down on the suggestion. In a statement telephoned from his home in Springfield, Mass., Putnam said the future of the whole controls program is under study, adding: "Undoubtedly the time will come when this can be done, but as of now and for some time it would be premature."

Crossing Accidents

DETROIT (AP)—Two men died in railroad crossing accidents here yesterday.

Martin Glapa, 85, of Detroit, was killed when a Grand Trunk Western train struck a hand cart he was pushing.

John P. Asica, 35, of Highland Park, also was the victim of a Grand Trunk Western train. Witnesses said he was struck while standing on the track as they shouted warnings to him.

Shelter Wrecked

Gangland Slayer Complaint Legal

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Validity of a fugitive complaint for removal of Leo (Lips) Mocerri to Toledo for trial on a 1931 gangland slaying case has been upheld by Municipal Judge F. Ray Bennett.

Mocerri's lawyer argued the complaint was defective because Mocerri's first name is Leonard. He demanded proof that Leo is the same person as Leonard Mocerri. The court held yesterday that the complaint was sufficient and set next Wednesday for hearing.

Big Powers In UN Seek Lie Successor

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The big powers were reported today squaring away for a closed door struggle over a successor to U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie— if one can be agreed on.

The Russians are said to be anxious to get Lie—whose extended tour of duty they have bitterly opposed for two years—out of the way as soon as possible.

Peace Proposal Ready
All delegations have been so engrossed in the debate and behind-the-scenes maneuvering over the deadlocked Korean armistice question they have had little time for anything else.

That problem will reach its climax Monday when the Assembly's Political Committee is expected to vote on an Indian compromise prisoner of war resolution after hearing final arguments by its author, V. K. Krishna Menon. The communists have already turned thumbs down on the plan.

Famed Sister Kenny Has Turn For Worse

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Sister Elizabeth Kenny, famed polio nurse critically ill with coronary thrombosis at her Queensland home, is sinking, the latest bulletin from her bedside said early today.

Sister Kenny suffered a turn for the worse last night. She is unconscious, her right side is paralyzed and she is receiving oxygen continuously.

An airliner bringing supplies of a new drug, trypsin, from a New York hospital was due in Brisbane tonight. Sister Kenny's physician, Dr. John Ogden, expressed doubt, however, whether it would arrive in time.

The plane has been diverted from Sydney to Brisbane and an automobile is waiting at the airport to speed the drug to the Kenny home in Toowoomba, 5 miles from Brisbane.

House Trailer Plant

PINCONNING, Mich. (AP)—A spectacular fire destroyed the Anderson Coach Co. here early today at an estimated loss of $100,000.

The blaze, fed by paints and lacquer, was sweeping the long, narrow building by the time firemen arrived. It broke out shortly after 1 a. m. from undetermined cause.

The company makes house trailers. It employs about 100 men. The factory had been closed since Wednesday night for the Thanksgiving holiday.

Busy Week End Ahead For Eisenhower; Nine Men On Visiting List

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower started a busy week-end today, and his visitors' lists indicated conferences on two big problems—foreign affairs and the streamlining of government.

He planned to see nine men at separate times today and Sunday. Eisenhower today called in John Foster Dulles, whom he has designated to be secretary of state. Dulles will have an announcement of "importance" after the meeting, James C. Hagerly, press secretary said.

Hoover Report Studied
Tomorrow, the general meets with three college presidents—his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower among them—apparently to talk about the structure of government.

The group includes two men who worked on the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report.

That report, along with others, is being studied with reference to the type of administration Eisenhower is considering, Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire said recently. Adams is to be the President's assistant in the next administration.

In setting a schedule for today and Sunday, Eisenhower broke one of his own rules. Aides reported, recently, that he hoped to keep his weekends free of work from now on.

Korean Trip Secret
He planned to take time out, however, to watch the Army-Navy game on television. Eisenhower said he couldn't get to Philadelphia this year.

Spies Fighting Death Sentence

NEW YORK (AP)—Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman has agreed to step aside and let another judge decide whether a husband-wife atom spy team should die or treason.

The couple, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, are due to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing the week of Jan. 12 for conspiring to give atomic secrets to Russia.

The U. S. Supreme Court has refused to consider the case further. However, the defense is making a final effort to have the death sentences set aside.

Kaufman said he had no prejudice even though he sentenced the Rosenbergs to death. But he agreed to let Federal Judge Sylvestre J. Ryan hear defense arguments Monday.

The Associated Press recently reported incorrectly that the Rosenbergs "maintained that they worked for Russia when the nation was allied with the United States."

Defense Attorney Emanuel Bloch emphasized that the Rosenbergs have never admitted working for Russia but have consistently denied this charge.

In seeking a reduction of the death penalty, Bloch argued that, even if the government was correct in its contention they worked for Russia, that was at a time when this nation was allied with the Soviet Union. Thus, he added, the death penalty was not justified.

Showdown Monday
Both camps claimed growing strength, and seemed head for a showdown fight for the CIO leadership at the big labor federation's convention, which opens here Monday.

A number of the CIO leaders wanted to avoid any public clash. They were trying to prevail on both sides to come to an agreement that would prevent any open split and thereby possibly endanger the CIO's future.

One of these "peacemakers" was Jacob S. Potofsky, president of the CIO's Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union who told newsmen after a huddle ending at midnight.

Meanwhile, there were no further indications about the time of his departure for Korea. All details of the trip are meshed in a tight net of security measures.

Eisenhower probably added to his information about the Far Eastern situation, however, in two conferences yesterday. He was closeted or several hours with Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, chief of the Central Intelligence Agency, and with Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, who wrote the important "Wedemeyer Report" on China and Korea.

Bribery Suspected
In Freeing Of 3
Capone Gangsters

By JACK ADAMS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Atty. Gen. James P. McGranery said today he intends to find out if bribery figured in the now famous case of three paroled ex-Capone gangsters.

He ordered FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to open a new and sweeping investigation into all of the circumstances of the paroles, granted in 1947.

In a formal statement, McGranery said, "This attorney general (believes) the whole matter should be fully investigated," adding: "We have decided to reopen the entire case—even at this late date."

Fourth Man Dead
McGranery asserted that the freeing of Paul (The Waiter) Ricca, Louis (Little New York) Compagna and Charles (Cherry Nose) Gioe, one-time members of the late Al Capone's Chicago mob, has "been matter of various charges, including rumors of bribery," during the last five years.

A fourth man, Philip Louis d'Andrea, convicted with these three of extorting more than a million dollars from the motion picture industry, was paroled at the same time, but subsequently died.

A House committee investigated the paroles in 1948 and demanded that the freed men be put back in prison.

The committee said it found no evidence of bribery but expressed the view that "big money"—from an unknown source—was spent to get the men out.

By NORMAN WALKER
ATLANTIC CITY (AP)—CIO leaders remained tightly deadecked today in trying to choose a new leader, but forces backing Walter Reuther seemed to be gaining an upper hand.

Top officials of the labor organization kept busy in a series of closed door conferences seeking to center on a successor to the late Philip Murray as CIO president.

Reuther, 45-year-old red-haired president of the CIO's United Auto Workers, was vying for the top job with Allan S. Haywood, 64-year-old CIO executive vice president.

County Clerks Notified
Gov. Williams, the Democrat who won a third term by 8,618 votes, will petition this afternoon for the remaining non-machine precincts. The machine precincts are estimated unofficially at 772.

The board, accepting Williams' petition as a foregone conclusion, telegraphed all county clerks that the recount was ordered and pulled out of a pigeon-hole the complete plans used two years ago in the Williams-Kelly recount, first state-wide recount for governor in the state's history.

The State Bar of Michigan again was asked to provide attorneys in every county who would become the state's neutral supervisors of the recount.

NEW YORK (AP)—Of all things, "Santa Claus" was in trouble, and saucer-eyed Stanley Schwartz told a Bronx magistrate:

"Please don't hurt Santa Claus." "Why?" asked Magistrate Hilda Schwartz, who is not related to 8-year-old Stanley.

"Because he is good to children," stammered Stanley.

It happened yesterday.

"Santa," 50-year-old Sidney Meyers who does the Kris Kringle honors each season at a Bronx department store, came to court from work. He was attired in his Santa Claus suit.

An upstairs neighbor had complained about Meyers, said he talked too loud nights when she was trying to sleep. "Santa" laughed too loud, also, the complainant said.

Stanley Schwartz was in court with his mother, a witness in another case.

Glen S. Leonard, Escanaba safety director, said the women will be charged with engaging in an illegal occupation, under a disorderly statute. They are scheduled for arraignment today in justice court.

A few minutes before the raid officers in plain clothes entered the Rex Hotel with marked money.

One additional arrest is expected to be made in connection with the case, authorities said.

Four Hurt In Car Accident

Four persons were injured, none seriously, last evening when a motorist failed to see a flagman at the Stephenson Avenue crossing of the Chicago & North Western Railroad and crashed into the rear of a car ahead.

Escanaba police reported that a car driven by Mrs. Sophia Olson, 1126 Stephenson Ave., at 6:37 p. m. struck an auto driven by John Blanchette, Wells, who had halted at the crossing for the flagman coming out to signal an approaching train.

Injured were Mrs. Olson, who suffered nose and ankle bruises, and three other occupants of the Olson car: Anna Klossowski and Mary Starzyk of Shingleton, and Christina Marie Olson, 3, who were bruised.

They were taken to St. Francis Hospital by ambulance and released after treatment.

Mrs. Olson was ticketed by police for failure to stop her car in the assured clear distance ahead.

Brothers Leaving Sunday For Funeral Of Emil Derocher

Fred Derocher of Bark River and Eugene Derocher of Schaffer are leaving Sunday for Milwaukee to attend funeral services for their brother, Emil Derocher, who died Thanksgiving night in Milwaukee.

Services for the former Schaffer resident will be held from St. Aloysius Church in Milwaukee at 10 a. m. Monday and burial will be in Milwaukee.

Mr. Derocher, a former manager of the Bark River-Schaffer baseball club, had been ill for 11 years and for the past three years was bedridden.

He was born in Schaffer Jan. 6, 1907, and was a member of the St. Vincent de Paul society and the Holy Name society. His survivors include his wife, the former Edna L'Veau of Nadeau, and two children.

An uncle, Felix Doudre of Schaffer, and a niece, Mrs. Albert Martin of Schaffer, are among relatives who also plan to attend services.

Frank Reiter, jobber, was ticketed for having defective brakes on his car this morning after the car jumped a curb at Rapid River and crashed into the building occupied by Bill's Bar.

The car struck the front window, breaking the plate glass and loosening some of the bricks under the window.

Fair to Poor:

U. P. Had More Hunters, Fewer Deer This Season

The 1952 deer hunting season will end tomorrow and all indications are that in the Upper Peninsula this year there were more hunters in the woods and fewer deer killed.

Several factors combined to account for the lower kill, about which so many hunters have complained. Hunting success generally was only "fair to poor," according to unofficial reports.

The factors include the weather, good for the opening of the season, changing to rain and fog, then to colder weather and snow. The longed-for "tracking snow" came after many of the hunters had given up and left the woods.

Deer Herd Reduced
Another factor not to be overlooked is the increased number of deer sighted in the woods, a complaint frequently heard this season.

The reduced deer herd was cut down still more by hunters this season, according to reports coming from Upper Peninsula hunters. Many local hunters said they found deer killed and left in the woods. The shooting of does was held to be a reaction by some hunters who failed to sight bucks.

Mrs. Frank Hartwig Sees Birthplace of Her Father On Film

Mrs. Frank Hartwig of 616 South 17th street saw films of her father's birthplace, in Osnabruck, Germany, during the Thanksgiving holidays, when her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Luecke of Detroit, visited here.

The films of the late Fred Luecke's home in Osnabruck, which has been preserved exactly as it was when he lived there, were taken by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Luecke while they were on a six-week Atlantic cruise this summer.

The Lueckes visited in France, England, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Germany. The Luecke home in Osnabruck, which has had only one owner since Mr. Luecke sold it, still has the year "1851" inscribed on it, to tell the year in which it was built, and a poem inscribed in a cornice.

The Ernest Lueckes, who also visited with their sister-in-law, Mrs. John Luecke, here, left this morning to return to Detroit. They made their trip to Europe in May and June this year.

State Schedules Timber Auctions For U. P. Forests

Six timber auctions have been slated December 3, 4 and 5 for cutting permits on 1,200-1,500 acres in six state forests, the conservation department reports.

Cuttings will be authorized in Baraga, Escanaba River, Grand Sable, Mackinac and Menominee state forests in the Upper Peninsula and in Thunder Bay River state forest, in the Lower Peninsula.

Included in the cuttings will be 800,000 board feet of hemlock, maple, birch, beech and jackpine saw timber. Other cuttings include 9,700 cedar posts, 3,200 tie cuts and 4,700 cords of spruce, balsam, poplar, birch and jackpine for pulpwood.

Local district foresters can provide additional information as to times and places of the auctions.

Bargains you want on Classified Page and insisted on having venison anyway.

The hunting success ratio, because of the increased number of hunters and their comparatively poor luck, is expected to take a nose dive this year when the tallies are completed by the Department of Conservation.

Deny Over-Population
When the finals on the season are completed by the state it is expected the total deer kill in the U. P. will be considerably below last year's total of 36,183.

Veteran hunters, both resident and from downstate, claim the Upper Peninsula is not overpopulated by deer. They contend the deer herd is declining by over-hunting—and argue against any open season on does in the years to come.

The number of deer hunting licenses sold in the Upper Peninsula has climbed steadily in the past several years. The toll taken has reduced the deer herd, they say.

That the upward trend in the number of hunters continued this year was conceded by officials, who pointed to the larger number of hunting licenses issued this year and the fact that Straits traffic increased 25 per cent with the influx of downstate hunters.

Kill Is Down

The number of permits issued to take deer out of the state is lower than last year, and the number of bucks transported south across the Straits is also down, according to state figures.

To midnight yesterday, a total of 8,020 deer had been taken south at the Straits, compared to 9,666 for the same period last year, a drop of 1,646.

Altogether the season was disappointing for the majority of the hunters who came to the U. P. expecting plenty of deer and hunting success within the first few days of the season. Resident hunters also noted a larger percentage of failure than success.

Generally the hunting stories follow a pattern—few deer seen and many hunters in the woods—that forecasts poorer hunting in the years to come.

License Ordered Restored to Driver

Henry O. Cominess of Masonville township was restored his driver's license by order of Judge Glenn W. Jackson in Circuit Court this week.

Cominess petitioned the court to set aside the order which revoked the license Oct. 31, 1952 after he was involved in a personal injury accident near Brampton. The license suspension was automatically effected by the Secretary of State's office under a statute which provides for revocation in cases where an accident results in injury to a person.

Cominess' plea that he was not at fault in the mishap was incorporated in his suit against Secretary of State Fred M. Alger Jr.

The Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce is again sponsoring its annual collection of new and used toys, with the city firemen making repairs and the Salvation Army making the distribution as gifts to needy families of Delta County.

This year, because of the county-wide scope of the Salvation Army program, the collection is being extended to Gladstone and the areas of both cities.

Escanaba city and the city firemen are cooperating in making what repairs are necessary to used toys.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce announced the toys collection will be in effect from Dec. 1-15, inclusive.

In Escanaba the donors are asked to leave the toys at either the City Hall fire station or the station in North Escanaba. They may also phone 2368 and the toys will be picked up.

War Boom Lacks Appeal to Ruark

By ROBERT C. RUARK
NEWPORT NEWS, Va.— Looking out the window of the hotel at the broad sweep of Hampton Roads, studded with ships, and hearing the roar of the shipyards, watching the uniforms around the airport—it suddenly takes away some years from the watcher. I have seen all this before, in an older war.

There is probably more military activity in this area, where the Chesapeake meets the Atlantic, than any place else in the land.

Just around the Norfolk-Newport News-Little Creek confines are enough soldier and sailor suits to have won the Korean war if we let go the muscle.

In a few square miles we have the tremendous shipbuilding potential that made us great in the last one, capable of turning out big liners and smaller, more utilitarian vessels with the same ease.

There's a naval operating base, a naval air station, the amphibious base, the Army field forces at Ft. Monroe, the transportation center at Ft. Eustis, and the Langley Air Force Base. All with men to match.

Cost And Profit

You have to come to a place like the Norfolk area to be reminded that for 30 months we have been at war, and that very few people around the United States are conscious of it. Right in this sentence comes a mournful blast on an outgoing ship's too—the loneliest and also, sometimes, the happiest of all the noises.

The streets of the cities around Hampton Roads are jammed with uniforms. It makes you stop and brood about war as an industry, an industry which has kept this country over-prosperous, and also over-inflated, for the last dozen years.

The prosperity is nice. The jumping land prices are fine. The activity is healthy, but the clinker is that it is predicated solely on preparation to fight, and a small, side-corner fight that we have been waging fruitlessly for the past two years and more.

I just left Huntington, W. Va., and the man who runs the paper I work for there tells me about the new atom foundry that's coming up in nearby Ohio. This is the biggest and bestest. To accompany the boom, land auctions are being advertised daily. Motels and restaurants are being thrown up so fast you can see them grow. It is boom like gold in California, like oil in Texas—war boom.

I admire boom but I get a little melancholy about it sometimes. Especially when it is based on one thing—the eventual payoff of combat, which is the bust part of the boom-and-bust. This area looks to me exactly as it looked in early 1942. It looks like my home town looked as I very vaguely remember it in the last days of World War I.

Boom And War

In the middle of the last one, the convoys I rode used to come through the roads here, and we would pray collectively, please God, don't let the commodore blink us a message detaching us here. Even Baltimore or Philadelphia was better. The boom was going then.

It would be wonderful in a lifetime if you could see one more huge burst of prosperity that wasn't founded on the number of troops passing through, or being trained, or heavy industry for war chained to small prosperity. If once again the troops themselves, with their beer and hotdog buying, or the employees in airplane and atom foundries, weren't the keystone to riches for the small builder and purveyor.

The catch to this prosperity for the civilian is that, as in any boom, the urge is artificial. Nearly always you wind up with a ghost town—unless there's a bigger and better war in the offing.

It is fine we have the preparing, and the full employment, and the fashioning of the tools we need. But it still makes me a touch morose. I have seen this place before, including the victory arch. For World War One.

Industry-Wide Bargaining Still Is Dangerous Weapon In U. S.

SEN. Taft, main architect of the Taft-Hartley labor law, has indicated that a number of changes in the law will be proposed when the new Congress convenes but that the basic principles of the act will not be disturbed.

Organized labor leaders have fought the T-H act bitterly and made it a major issue in election campaigns the past four years. The act, however, has been a stabilizing influence in labor relations. It is in no sense the slave-labor law that union officials have branded it.

Two of the proposed changes were requested by President-elect Eisenhower. One would require industry officials as well as labor union officers to take a non-

Communist oath if they desired the protection of the act. The other would permit strikers who have been replaced in their jobs to vote in union representation elections.

Both amendments are desirable and it is unlikely that much opposition will be presented. These changes would have been made in 1951 except that labor leaders, who controlled a large bloc of votes in Congress, opposed any changes in the act. They wanted outright repeal.

Sen. Taft has indicated that he will not push now for a ban on industry-wide bargaining, a proposal that would meet with the most vigorous opposition of organized labor.

It is unfortunate, from the standpoint of the nation's welfare, that no action is contemplated on this vital issue in the new Congress. Industry-wide bargaining is a form of monopoly that must necessarily be eliminated sooner or later. It is a weapon that gives a single strong labor boss, like John L. Lewis, for instance, immense power over the economic situation in America.

No industry is permitted a monopoly without regulation. But the labor leaders can and do possess a monopoly in bargaining power that can shut off at one stroke virtually the nation's entire coal supply, or steel production.

U. S. Army Highly Regards Its GI's

THERE are, of course, a number of reasons why the American soldier is among the best, as well as most resourceful, in the world. Not the least of the reasons is the fact that the American Army regards its soldiers as precious human beings.

An incident that accentuates this viewpoint occurred this week in Korea where a lone American infantryman became lost behind enemy lines. A large scale action developed for the purpose of rescuing the soldier. It was successful, too.

Can you imagine the Russian Army putting on a large scale fight to rescue one of its own soldiers lost behind enemy lines. Of course not. Human life is cheap in Soviet Russia. It's not the individual that counts. It's the state—or rather, it's the Communist Party.

WORK ON THE OFF BEAT

(Christian Science Monitor)

It's fine to whistle while you work, sing while you splash, and work while you listen. Music adds charm to many a routine task. But it also adds hazards, as the British Broadcasting Corporation has discovered.

In its music-while-you-work program the BBC made the mistake of playing "Deep in the Heart of Texas." At the place in the chorus where people are supposed to clap hands, British industry went suddenly awry. All over England workers clapped hands gaily while the assembly belt went by with essential operations unperformed. Workers with tools hammered enthusiastically on anything handy, such as expensive machines.

We pale to think what might have happened had the BBC played the Anvil Chorus. Perhaps it should trip piping in Orlando Gibbons and Henry Purcell from the Third Programme. Plato, who laid such stress on the proper place of music in developing good workers and citizens, knew the danger of departing from stately Doric strains and allowing music to encourage a popular taste for revolution.

One important fact should not be missed in all this. The Englishman is often accused of being a stolid creature unresponsive to music's charms. Yet here we find a great spontaneous wave of response, a universal swelling up of rhythmic delight—deep in the heart of Blighty.

Brook trout lose 1.6 per cent of their length in death, says a scientist. Is that why fishermen stretch them?

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Gradually the story of the three Fields who disappeared so mysteriously behind the iron curtain in the spring of 1949 is beginning to unfold.

Bit by bit it can be pieced together from the current spy trials in Czechoslovakia, the earlier spy trial in Hungary, and by disclosures of refugees.

For three years not a word has been heard of Noel Field, former State Department official and European relief worker who went to Czechoslovakia in May 1949 and dropped out of sight.

He disappeared suddenly from his Prague hotel room, though later he wired the hotel to keep his clothes, and on July 12 a man named Rene Kimel collected his things and paid his hotel bill.

In Aug. 22, 1949, his brother Herman boarded an airplane in Warsaw, to fly to Czechoslovakia. He disappeared en route. Passengers aboard the plane did not see him fall out. His name was on the passenger list when the plane departed. But when it got to Prague, he wasn't aboard—or so said the Communist police.

Only this week did the Austrian Communist newspaper "Volksstimme" admit what long had been suspected—that the Fields had been arrested.

Meanwhile, on August 3, Noel Field's German-born wife went to Prague to look for him, but disappeared from sight on August 17. Following this, Field's adopted daughter, Erika Glazer-Wallach, went from Washington to Berlin, reportedly was met by Leo Bauer, editor of the Soviet-controlled Berlin radio, and has never been heard from since.

For three years, State Department queries have received a blank stare from the Communists, and the world has not known whether the Fields were Communists. American agents against Communism, spies or what.

MOSCOW FEARED FIELD

However, with the recent Czech spy trials, an explanation gradually unfolds. It boils down to this: Moscow had to get Noel Field out of the way before it brought charges against the alleged traitors in Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Otherwise, had he been free in the west, he would have denied the evidence. Consequently, he was enticed into Czechoslovakia and arrested four months before the first trial began.

For many of the Communists now on trial were Field's friends. He had known them when they were refugees in Western Europe and when he was helping them as a relief worker for the Unitarian Service Committee.

Field, it appears, had been a Communist, though whether he remained one is not known. Testimony regarding his Communist connections was brought out in the Hiss trial; while Jules Humbert-Droz, president of the Swiss Communist party till 1942, stated in an interview with E. F. Gonda that Field was under Communist orders to take care of Communist refugees and arrange for their repatriation to Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Russia.

He was also instructed by Moscow to put them in touch with the OSS, the American Wartime undercover service, then operating in Europe. Field had worked with Allen Dulles, OSS chief in Switzerland, during the height of the war and had helped get valuable information from Germany through German Communist. And in 1945, he came to Paris with a letter from Dulles to Capt. Arthur Schlesinger of the OSS, now a professor at Harvard and more recently on the staff of Adlai Stevenson.

Field tried to persuade Schlesinger to make use of his Communist proteges through the OSS. However, Schlesinger informs me that he was suspicious, did not see why the United States should subsidize a group of Communist exiles, and rejected Field's offer.

This is important. For on this turns the crux of the present spy trials in Czechoslovakia and the previous trials in Hungary.

FIELD WAS REFUGEE KEY

After the war ended, Field was given the job of arranging for the Communist refugees to return to their countries. And since he was an American, and the U. S. Army controlled much of the transportation, he was the one man who could get military passes, travel orders, etc.

The Communist exiles whom Field befriended went back to Eastern Europe to become big shots in their local Communist governments. They became the leaders of their countries. They were 100 per cent Communists. And to many of them, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, rather than Russia, came first.

Therefore, when Moscow began to call on the satellite countries for more military support, more wheat, more supplies, many of these leaders chafed. They watched the example of Tito who threw off the yoke of Moscow, and secretly wondered if they should not do likewise.

Moscow, meanwhile, was depressing satellite economy to the same low level as Russia's; simultaneously building up Russian economy at satellite expense. The more this happened, the more Titoism spread.

That is the chief reason for the trials of Slansky, Clementis, and Foreign Minister Rjak in Hungary.

Price Of Treason:

Rosenbergs Centered Spy Nest In Betrayal Of United States

By WARD CANNEL

NEA Staff Correspondent

"Who knows," said Federal Judge Irving Kaufman in pronouncing the death sentence on Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, "who knows but that millions of innocent people may pay the price of your treason."

The judge was quite certain that the silent couple standing before him had already contributed heavily to the Communist aggression in Korea. And for their part in a world-wide spying that had given the A-bomb to the Russians, the Rosenbergs were sentenced to the electric chair.

The huge spy-nest had already been burned out. Spy-master Yakovlev had fled to Moscow. British physicist Fuchs had confessed. Canadian atom scientist May had confessed. So had spy-courier Harry Gold, who named the Rosenbergs in the plot.

Said the Rosenbergs: "We can not reassert often or emphatically enough our complete innocence."

Thus, much of the Rosenberg story came from Ethel's brother, David Greenglass, who played a strong supporting role. His reward for state's evidence was a light sentence of 15 years.

An Army sergeant and expert machinist, Greenglass had been assigned in 1944 to a lathe in a new, restricted factory outside Albuquerque, N. M. Neither he nor the other 200,000 workers at Los Alamos knew what it was all about.

His wife, Ruth, told him. She had learned from their brother-in-law, Julius Rosenberg, that an atomic bomb was under construction. She also told David that Julius was now doing what he'd always wanted to do—giving information to the Russians.

Julius and Ethel had broken their connections with the Communist Party, had stopped reading the Daily Worker, had stayed away from party meetings. The business of espionage called for people above suspicion.

THE LAST DOORWAY?—Flanked by U. S. marshals, Mrs. Ethel Rosenberg mounts the steps of Sing Sing Prison after being sentenced to death with her husband, Julius, for espionage.

It had been luck for Julius to find his wife's brother in a key position. For years he had curried Greenglass with presents and party literature, until he could call the younger man his protégé.

Now it was time for David Greenglass to contribute to Russia. Greenglass searched his soul that night, and the following morning he answered the questions Julius had sent with Ruth. How many employed at Los Alamos? How many buildings? What big names.

Ruth went home with the memorized information. And two months later her husband came to New York on furlough with more information. At the Rosenbergs' Monroe Street apartment on the fringe of Greenwich Village, he dictated facts and figures to Ethel. And from memory he drew the plans for the top-secret lens that had been designed to detonate the A-bomb.

Now Julius had a new plan. He cut a boxtop in half, giving one part to Greenglass. The matching half, he said, would identify the courier who would come to Los Alamos for information.

In June of 1945, a stranger with half of a boxtop called on the Greenglasses in their Albuquerque apartment. He was, he said, "Dave from Pittsburgh"—in court he signed his name, "Harry Gold."

In return for Greenglass' sketches and data, he turned over an unexpected gift of $500. Ruth Greenglass put that money in a bank — except for $37.50 with which she bought a U. S. War Bond.

As soon as David Greenglass was honorably discharged from the Army, he lost his value as an informant. But by then the Rosenbergs were busy with other new sources. And the two couples confined their cooperation to a family machine shop that never made much money.

The espionage business did not come between them until the FBI moved in on Klaus Fuchs. His confession in London threw the Rosenbergs into desperation.

Quickly, Julius made intricate plans to get the Greenglasses out of the country. He gave them $5000 and planned their journey by the underground Red railroad to Mexico and Switzerland.

In spite of Fuchs' confession and Harry Gold's arrest, the Greenglasses expected the scare to blow over. But neither Julius nor Ethel Rosenberg was surprised on July 17, 1950, when the FBI knocked on their door.

By CLINT DUNATHAN

AMERICAN HUSBANDS—The men of America are currently the subject of debate by a young lady from France, movie actress Denise Darcel, who finds the American male a poor second to her French compatriots as husband material.

Women, says she in the best continental tradition, like to be slapped down occasionally. And the American husband is no good as a slapper-downer.

The men of America, she finds after residing in Hollywood for a few months, are inclined to look for a wife who will "mother" them; the Frenchmen apparently have no such difficulty and go around knocking women down with clubs and fists—including their dear old mothers.

This makes the French gentleman a superior product in the husband market.

MASTERFUL TYPE—If Miss Darcel were a housewife rather than a movie actress she might welcome an American husband, for all his weakness.

National surveys reveal that 80 per cent of American husbands help their wives with the dishes, at least part of the time. Undoubtedly the husbands in gay Paree would rather be caught in a bedroom than in a kitchen, and for them to ever "do the dishes" would be unthinkable.

That the men of France claim to be the best cooks and the best dressmakers in the world appears in no way contradictory. They are still all male and very masterful, says Miss Darcel.

COOPERATIVE MEN—In most of the households known to us the so-called "man of the house" will, when the occasion requires, do at least a portion of the household tasks and think nothing of it.

He is not above dabbling his fingers in dishwater or even scrubbing a floor. Some husbands, however, reserve their efforts to lighter chores and have an evasive habit of being sleepy or tired or deeply interested in the evening paper when the dishes are being done.

One man we know gets out of the dishwashing business by reason of an allergy. Soaps of all kinds give him the sneezes. When soaps went out and detergents came in he found that detergents also made him sneeze.

Another man evades the dishpan but—this is his well-kept secret—he likes to bake cakes. He will go about the cake-making methodically while listening to a football game on the radio. The cakes are wonderful, according to his wife.

NO EXCUSES, PLEASE—The American husband does not have to apologize to Miss Darcel or to anyone for his attitude toward wives, home, and mother.

In the majority he is kind and considerate, a good husband and father. We have a few men of Miss Darcel's French type, however, and you will see them in court occasionally—being sued for divorce or defendants in assault and battery cases.

Most American women resent being slapped around by their husbands or anyone else. If the French women like that sort of treatment they have a peculiar approach to conjugal bliss.

AN AMERICAN MARRIAGE—It is our observation that most marriages in this country are cooperative and usually happy.

Husband and wife have little thought as to which partner is the "boss" and go about their respective tasks, mutually sharing responsibilities, and concerned more with meeting the payments on the house, washing machine or car than over the question of whether the wife should stand still while her husband slugs her.

American husbands have been known to sit with the baby while their wives went out. They know how to give the baby its bottle and change its pants.

American wives, equally resourceful, can drive the family car, keep the family accounts, and often holds a lucrative job while raising a family.

The subject is one of tremendous importance and stems from an American tradition. Pioneer couples fought the Indians and the wilderness. Side by side they worked and won. Miss Darcel does not understand.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

Did you ever think that what you do when you rehearse a play or a speech is, literally, to drag a harrow back and forth? At least, that was the original literal sense. And a harrow is a harrow.

When the Normans invaded England, back in the eleventh century, they brought with them an agricultural tool which they called a harrow, but which the English called, and still call, a harrow. This was a triangular framework of heavy wood, into which a number of spikes were driven.

Often this heavy harrow had to be dragged over a field again and again to make the ground smooth. Someone with imagination saw the resemblance between the farmer's act, going over and over a bit of reluctant soil, to that of a schoolmaster, raking the mind of a pupil over and over preparing the soil to retain some knowledge, and gave us the word rehearse, to harrow or harrow again and again, or to go over and over something until the mind could retain it. The spelling rehearse came later.

In France, in early times it was also the custom in certain religious ceremonies to mount a number of tapers in a light wooden framework. And because this framework with its tapers resembled an overturned harrow and its spikes, the ceremonial framework was also called a harrow, a term that eventually became known in England.

Later, this harrow, or hearse as the spelling became, was greatly elaborated. The original number of candles, used in Holy Week, had been thirteen. But more and more candles were added and the structure was placed over the bier when the funeral service of a distinguished person was read. These structures went out of use in England three or four hundred years ago but the name hearse was then applied to the bier or coffin and finally to the vehicle which carries the coffin at a funeral.

Now Is No Time For Business Alarms

A New York Times survey shows less than 1,300,000 unemployed in the nation—or about two in every 100 persons. The rate is so low that economists are having to revise their notions of what constitutes "rock-bottom" unemployment.

Only in World War II, when the total ranged around 10,000,000, have we had a lower figure in modern economic times.

Present totals have to be measured, too, against the prospect that peak defense output will probably not be reached for another six to eight months, and we may have on top of that gain a small but steady rise in civilian production. In other words, the outlook is for even less unemployment.

The year 1953 thus promises a continuation of the high economic levels we have enjoyed almost without a break since 1945. But, oddly, many business and industrial leaders appear to believe that a recession will get under way before the new year is ended.

This feeling is a phenomenon more curious than the fact that the experts are confounded by low unemployment rates. Why should industrialists faced with such bright signs envisage a downturn?

The only answer seems to be that the memory of the Great Depression, fading but still real in the minds of millions of ordinary workers, is no less real to the managers of American business. They worry that things may be just too good to be true. History tells them that booms must end some time.

Certainly we have no reason to assume that we have abolished depressions. And we have not for a long time tested the strength of our basic economy in a time free of war or the preparations for war.

Nevertheless, it is true as well that the economy today has many legal and other props which did not exist in depression days. Government, whether Republican or Democratic, is pledged to throw its full resources quickly into use to prevent the disaster of another depression.

In the light of this situation, and in view of the fact that no important external evidences of trouble have yet appeared, it seems hardly sensible for either economists or businessmen to adopt at this moment the gloomy approach.

When the signs turn dark, that is time enough to sound the alarms.

An Indiana man chewed 101 sticks of gum at one time. At least he had a lot of cheek.

A brewery ad says that beer should be drunk with dignity. Anyway, until you get to about the fifth glass.

Nine Who Didn't Give Thanks

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

I doubt whether any story for Thanksgiving Day, in the Bible or out of the Bible, is more vital and significant than that of the ten lepers whom Jesus healed (Luke 17:11-20).

As a positive and inspiring example in thanksgiving, the chief importance of course should attach to the deep gratitude of the one who, when he saw himself cleansed, turned back and "with a loud voice glorified God" and fell down on his face at the feet of Jesus, giving Him thanks. That example has added significance in the fact that the thankful, cleansed leper was a Samaritan.

As in the Parable of the Good Samaritan, we are reminded that it is character and action, not race or any outward aspect, that counts. God is no respecter of persons. This incidentally, in the recent Revised Standard Version (Romans 2:11), is translated, "God shows no partiality."

But on the principle that we never know the real value of a thing until we realize the need of it through the lack of it, it is in the nine lepers who failed to give thanks, at the deepest lesson, and its significance in Thanksgiving, is found.

The lack of any word of thanks for Jesus who healed them, on the part of men who were the victims of a dread disease tragic even more than the victims of leprosy, but even more tragic in its making such outcasts, who found themselves suddenly cleansed, seems amazing.

Actually it is no more amazing than the thoughtless attitude of masses of men who enjoy all the gifts of God, of nature, and of human life, yet never manifest any thoughtfulness or gratitude for all that they have received.

It is because of this that the story of the nine who didn't give thanks is a parable of life and, as with all the parables of Jesus, it has the quality of applying equally to every age and place.

Why did these nine lepers fail to return and give thanks? They could hardly have helped feeling a great relief and a corresponding sense of gratitude when they say themselves cleansed. But in their new joy they neglected entirely to regard the One, and the action that had brought it about.

The spirit of thanksgiving is not only a normal attitude and duty, it is the gateway to the enjoyment of life and its riches. To feel thankful for what we have is to be reaching out for a greater measure of all that there is for ourselves, and for a deeper measure of sharing with others.

So, in this Thanksgiving of 1952, while we emulate the example of that other good Samaritan, who returned to Jesus to pour out his thanks, let us take warning and counsel from the nine who failed. Shall we be like the one, or among the nine?

Two Sons Keep Body Of Mother 2 Years In Home At Detroit

DETROIT (P)—Authorities Friday sought to determine the cause of death of an 87-year-old woman whose body was kept for two years by her two sons in an upstairs room of her home in Detroit's Eastern Market district.

Police made the macabre discovery of the skeleton of Mrs. Emily Lemersal Thursday during an investigation of reports that all was not well at the Lemersal home.

One Found Dying

When police attempted to enter the rundown house, one of the two sons, Stanley, 55, shot himself. He was found mortally wounded on a bed in another room.

Rushed to Receiving Hospital, Stanley, before he died, said he and his brother, Russell, 50, kept the body of their mother because they did not have funds to bury her.

Mrs. Lemersal's skeleton was found on a bed. The skeleton had been covered with old rags.

Police said Russell who was arrested Wednesday, was held without charge for questioning.

Howard Schumann, 55, a nephew of Mrs. Lemersal, told police he had heard rumors that his aunt was dead. He said the two brothers had barricaded themselves in the house and refused to talk with him.

Rats Scamper

Schumann said his father, a brother of Mrs. Lemersal, had left him a half interest in the house. He added that recently he had had to pay taxes dating back to 1946.

The mystery deepened as police began asking questions of neighbors. Neighbors hadn't seen Mrs. Lemersal for two years. One of the sons had been seen to bury a box beside the house in the fall of 1950. Police said both sons were described as heavy drinkers.

Homicide detectives broke the barricade at the back door. They heard a muffled shot from the second floor as they stepped into the trash-littered house to find rats scampering about.

Climbing a cluttered, cobwebby stairway they forced another door and found the wounded son. Weakly, he told officers he had shot himself and that his mother's body was in the front bedroom.

Pet Dog Buried

Detectives found Mrs. Lemersal's bones on a rusty bed. They were covered by a heap of rags. Strewn about the house were hundreds of empty whiskey and wine bottles, empty bay rum bottles and canned heat containers.

Detectives quoted Russell Lemersal as saying that after his mother's death her pet Spitz dog had refused to eat and died of starvation.

"Of course," he told police, "we couldn't keep a dead dog around the house, so we put him in a big wooden box and buried him beside the house."

Neighbors said the Lemersals had lived in the house more than 15 years. The surviving son, Eggers said, could be charged with failure to report the death of his mother or with the possession of either of two revolvers found in the house.

Boy Has Fast Ride On Outside Of Train

ITHACA, N. Y. (P)—Twelve-year-old Philip Quick was back home today, none the worse for his jaunt on the outside of a speeding Lehigh Valley Railroad train. A chef on the train heard a pounding on the side of his dining car last night, shortly after the train had left here for Geneva, 35 miles north of this city in Central New York.

He pulled young Quick to safety from the lad's perch on a ladder on the side of the car. The railroad returned the boy home on the next train — on the inside.

Vows Spoken By Miss O'Connell, Hylton Bennett

A design of seed pearls on an imported lace leaf pattern outlined the flesh colored illusion yoke of the gown worn by Miss Elizabeth Jane O'Connell for her marriage today to Hylton Douglas Bennett of Chicago. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. O'Connell of 1107 10th Ave. S., Escanaba. Mr. Bennett is a son of Mrs. Lydia Bennett, Chicago.

The vows were spoken before Father Francis A. Hollenbach at 11 a. m. at St. Patrick's Church. Mums and pompons in autumn shades adorned the altar for the service. The bridal music was played by Mrs. William Ram-speak, organist.

Heirloom Pearls

The gown of imported white bridal satin was designed with a close fitting waist with fullness just above the hip line to form a cathedral length bouffant skirt. The long sleeves were pointed at the hand. Centering the yoke was an heirloom sunburst of matched pearls that belonged to the bride's aunt. The bride's fingertip length veil was crowned with a skull cap of hand made Swiss lace fashioned from a handkerchief sent her by her brother when he was in Switzerland. Her single strand of pearls was the bridegroom's gift. She carried a colonial bouquet of all white mums and pompons in cascade effect.

Identical gowns of velveteen were worn by the young women attending her. Tiny perky wing collars topped the illusion yokes with a scooped out scalloped neckline. The full floor length skirts were caught to empire waistline and the sleeves were long and pointed. Matching broken line Juliet caps and colonial bouquets of fall flowers completed their costumes. Mrs. Willis Holder of Brookfield, Ill., the matron of honor, wore moss green and Mrs. Elaine O'Connell of Royal Oak, Mich., the bridesmaid, was in rust. Mary O'Connell, a niece of the bride, who was flower girl, wore gold velveteen, the dress made with a fitted bodice, puff sleeves and long full skirt. She carried a nosegay of gold pompons. Steven O'Connell, a nephew of the bride, wore a white linen suit for his role as ring bearer.

Breakfast and Reception
Mr. Bennett's best man was Mark O'Connell of Niagara Falls, N. Y. Ushers were Willis Holder and Joseph Chmura of Naperville, Ill.

Mrs. O'Connell selected a dress-maker suit of taupe with purple accessories for her daughter's wedding. An orchid corsage completed her ensemble. Mrs. Bennett wore a black taffeta dress with velvet trim and black accessories. Her flowers were gardenias.

White fall flowers decorated the tables at the House of Ludington where the wedding breakfast was served and an autumn scheme is being used for the reception this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents.

The newlyweds will be at home after a Florida honeymoon at 5437 Race in Chicago. For traveling the bride will wear a lavender knit two-piece belted dress with short sleeves and rounded neckline accentuated by a gold bead arrow motif, a purple velvet cloche and a Kelly green coat, tuxedo style with beaver fur trim.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba High School and DePaul University Secretarial School. Her husband who attended Oklahoma A & M now is associated with the People's Gas Company in Chicago.

Guests at Wedding
Guests here for the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Martin Sorensen and son Bobby of Kentland, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Karl Dormeyer, Niles, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chmura of Naperville, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Willis Holder of Brookfield, Ill., Mrs. Elaine O'Connell, daughter Mary and son Michael, Royal Oak, Mich., Mark O'Connell of Niagara Falls, N. ## Infidelity May Take Many Forms Says Marriage Expert

"In my experience as a counselor, not more than one in 20 marriage problems stems from actual adultery," states the Rev. Margaret Blair Johnstone in the December Reader's Digest. "Well over half the cases, however, involve some other form of unfaithfulness."

"Infidelity" can be many things, the author contends, in an article condensed from Your Life. Typical is the story she tells of a wife who was suspicious about her husband's late working hours and the fact that he never brought home overtime pay. When she "had it out" with him she found that he had been working extra hours and saving his overtime pay to buy her a birthday present. Bitterly, he quoted the dictionary definition of infidelity: "Want of faith or belief."

Significant is the fact that this one word expresses lack of both marital and religious faith, the author points out. "For a successful marriage must be built on the strong, unswerving faith that is found in religion."

The woman who nags her husband about his earning power, the woman who is "too tired" for sexual relations, the husband who doesn't want children, are all faithless to their marriage vows, the Rev. Johnstone writes. Still another type of infidelity is the marital treachery husbands and wives commit when they "run each other down" in public. To expose a mate's defects is to renege on the promise to love, cherish, honor and keep. However deep the subsequent remorse, nothing can restore the intimacy killed by exposure of personal affairs.

Husbands who cling to their mothers are violating their vow to "forsake all others" no less than are husbands who have "affairs". Women who neglect their husbands for their children are guilty of the same offense.

LUDINGTON BUY-LINES

by Sue Donimus

EXPERIENCE is a great teacher all right, but she charges too much for her night courses. Spend a couple of evenings at Eden's Gift Shop, though, and you'll really profit. Eden's will be open every evening except Saturdays and Sundays until Christmas. That gives you plenty of time to browse among the exquisite gift items and make a perfect choice. This week I admired some new ceramics. Very decorative. Chinese pheasants with orange, yellow and olive green plumage that make unusual table or mantle pieces. And you'd have to get up pretty early in the morning to beat that beautiful big rooster. Better enroll at Eden's—some class!

DID you hear about the fellow who couldn't quit horsing around till they made him a groom? Maybe in the same class we can put Tyrone Power as the "Pony Soldier". This fiery technicolor movie comes to the Delft Theater on Sunday. It's the true story of a Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer who all by his handsome self forces a savage tribe of Cree Indians to return to their reserve in Canada. This is Tyrone Power's 38th starring role since 1938, and he has described it as being the most exacting assignment physically that's been given him. Another milestone—this is the 5000th Technicolor movie to be produced. You'll want to be sure to see this action packed picture, "Pony Soldier" in the saddle and in the groove!

OUR foreign relations may be strained—but our foreign relatives are at ease when we send them a Christmas card in their own language. There's a dandy selection of foreign language cards at the Photo Art Shop. The famous Hallmark Christmas cards are there, too, waiting too say Merry Christmas for you in their inimitable way. Such an exciting choice you won't be able to contain yourself. Which reminds me that Photo Art has provided containers for cards—a decorative cardboard train and two styles of Santa with his sleigh. Easy to put together; a grand gift to a child; only $1.00. A sign you care—when you sign a Photo Art card!

"THE trouble with wives," complains my husband, "is that they'd rather mend your ways than your socks." And I hasten to add that they frequently have too many irons in the fire and none in the ironing board. It's the Escanaba Steam Laundry to the rescue of the women... and the men... when they turn out sparkling, snow white shirts ironed within an inch of their lives. Hearts beat faster when Mom can hand Pop a crisp, gleaming shirt from the Escanaba Steam Laundry. Such reasonable prices in the family pack. Phone for pick up service today... and you'll give yourself a pick up!

YOU'VE got to hand it to someone this Christmas, so why not hand them a handmade gift? At the Variety Gift Shop you'll find so many well made, interesting articles. To wit: stunning rag dolls; fancy pillow cases; gay crocheted rugs made in the colors you order; hats and matching bags crocheted to order for girls or women; plaid or print cobbler's aprons—worn by everyone, but especially kind to the lady-in-waiting! Christmas cards, too, at this new little shop. Be sure to stop in some time soon. A small deposit will hold anything for you till Christmas. You can't put your foot in it when it's a handsome gift from the Variety Gift Shop!

A LOW neckline is the only thing men approve of and look down on at the same time. There are low necklines for the daring... cover-ups for the conservatives... and everything in between at Gartner's. A delightful shipment of holiday dresses has arrived and I can hardly tear myself out of the store once I'm in. Party taffetas, two-piece failles, crinkled acetates... new braid trim touched with brilliant pearls and beading. Pastel orlons are luscious—and what if you do spill? They wash like a dream. Swishy formals go to all lengths... long or short... to make you lovely to look at. When you're all dressed up at Gartner's you'll find someplace to go!

A BANK book used to be my favorite book. But now even that lacks interest! If you're a gal that likes to watch her pennies you'll want to hurry to the Office Service Company to get in on the terrific special—40 Christmas cards with your name imprinted—the whole works only $1.00! Many choices of cards. You'll also find a marvelous collection of boxed cards, and catalogues galore to last thru Christmas. Has really come at the Office Service Company. Stop in and spend some time—earn some money—and get some Christmas spirit!

Illustrated Story At Rock Parent Teacher Meeting

ROCK—The story of the "Three Little Pigs" told by two Rock kindergarten boys was the opening number at a meeting of the Rock P. T. A. Monday evening. As the story was unfolded by narrator, David Johnson, pictures placed on a flannel-board by Lyle Trombly gave a colorful description of the events as they took place.

Following this the parents met with the teachers in their respective rooms for half hour discussion periods.

The program continued with a short talk by Gail Russell of the Social Security office in Escanaba. His message emphasized the need and benefits of social security insurance. A movie "Looking Ahead" shown to the P.T.A. gave additional information along these lines.

The following reports and suggestions were brought up during the business session of the meeting:

A hot lunch report showed that 4,805 meals had been served during the month of October, or an average of 229 students per day had been served for 21 days.

Arne Johnson reported that caution signs had been placed at the north and south end of town by the Highway Dept.

Mrs. Albert Wuldem reported that a letter from Miss Esther Middlewood of the Department of Health was received in which she accepted the invitation of the Rock P.T.A. to speak here on the evening of Jan. 27.

John Small, fifth and sixth grade teacher who is in charge of the Christmas program this year suggested that a committee be formed to decide on the type of pattern and material to be used for the students in the Christmas chorus. This was agreed on and the following were chosen to make up the committee: Mrs. John Seppanen, Mrs. Waino Salmo and Mrs. Richard Campbell.

It was moved that the school savings program previously discussed should be dropped because it involved the handling of too many small sums of money.

Mrs. Eino Kivela, treasurer reported that $82.00 had been paid to the school for film strips. The room attendance award was won by the first and second grade room.

AS WE LIVE

There's Always A Reason For Quick Change Of Mind

By Elizabeth B. Hurlock, Ph.D.

When people change their attitudes and behavior suddenly, there is always a reason. This 16-year-old girl is old enough to know what reason her parents have for their changed attitude toward the young man she has been dating for more than a year:

(Q) "My parents never objected to my going steady with Don until he left for the army, nine months ago. Ever since then, they seem to dislike him. The last time, I came home at 11:30 p. m. on his one and only Sunday at home and my parents put up quite a fuss about it. They never said anything before when I came home from a date with him even later than this. My mother told him to keep away from me and not to write to me from camp. He took it pretty hard and I did, too. He said it was best that we broke up. He said he cared as much for me as before. I am heartbroken about this and don't know what to do."

(A) Your parents must have a good reason for the sudden change in the way they are treating Don. You are entitled to know this reason. Ask them for it. If they are wise parents, they will tell you. Can it be that they have heard unfavorable things about him since he has been in the army? If so, you are entitled to know what they are. You should not break off a friendship without a real reason.

They may, however, feel that things are getting pretty serious between you and that, because you are so young, you may rush into marriage should he be sent overseas. This so often happens, and your parents may be trying to discourage it.

Your mother was rude and inconsiderate to treat Don as she did. If you came home later than she had asked you to, she could have taken up the matter with you, after he left. There was no reason for her to embarrass him in your presence. Get the matter of time for coming home after dates straightened out with her so this can never happen again.

Men's Mustaches Downright Lovely, Women Declare

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—When you kid men who wear mustaches, mister—smile, smile, smile.

They can take the ribbing in good nature, but not their women-folk.

Her creed is simple: "Love that Man—Adore his mustache." And if you refer ever so slightly to the fuzzi patch under his nostrils he leaps to its defense, almost as quickly as if you had trampled one of her children.

Fine For Kisses

I found this out by writing a piece questioning the romantic impact of the mustache. My theory was—and is—that a man ordinarily grows a mustache to cure an inferiority complex and that it turns him into a snob faster than if someone gave him a million dollars.

The women got angry. They said a mustache is downright lovable. "Being a woman I would ten times rather be kissed by a mustache than all the smooth-faced yokels like you or some other men I could think of," wrote a riled lady from Ann Arbor, Mich.

A gentleman sailor from Boston wired me plyingly: "Haven't you heard the old saying of Scottish lassies, that kissing a man without a mustache is like eating an egg without salt?"

Another man said: "I grew a mustache because my wife likes Robert Taylor, and he has a mustache. Now my wife likes me, too—I think, I hope."

There also was a perfect torrent of feminine mail that can be summed up this way: "I love my husband and am proud of his mustache. And your wife would probably like you better if you grew a mustache too—on top of your head."

Bolsters Baldies

Well, okay, so I was wrong. A mustache can be more than a mouse cover. Behind every manly mustache lurks a tender woman's bristly pride.

A balding man needs every romantic crutch he can lean upon. So it's a pair of sweeping mustachios for me right away. The kind I grow myself make women weep with laughter instead of sigh with love. So I'm buying myself today the grandest set of rare old walrus mustaches on the market.

I just hope my new falsies don't break too many girlish hearts.

missed from St. Luke's Hospital, Marquette.

THE BUICK

Roomy Home With Cozy Appearance

Rooms ..... Five
Bedrooms ..... Three
Closets ..... Nine
Cubage
Main House ..... 23,000 ft.
Wing ..... 4,000 ft.
Dimensions ..... 41' x 27'

Measuring 41' x 26', the house proper can be built on a 65' foot lot. However, if you want a garage you'll have to add another 20 feet to the measurements; then, of course, you'll need at least an 85 foot lot. Cubage of the house is 23,000 feet; cubage of the garage and laundry/utility room wing is 4,000 feet.

Just about any type of exterior finish can be used with equally successful and attractive results on "The Buick"; the house also can be built in just about any location. As with any house designed along straight, rather simple lines, you can greatly improve and personalize the appearance of "The Buick" by adding decorative touches, such as blinds at the windows, by installing a more ornamental front door than that conventionally used, by giving more color to your home through the right type of roofing and by providing overall charm through skilled landscaping. The average family will find the interior of "The Buick" designed to suit their needs. Large enough to conveniently accommodate visitors and the family alike, the living room is a pleasant well lighted room that contains four windows.

Bookshelves, built into the further section of the right wall in the living room suggest that this section might be set apart as a family reading spot. In "The Buick" the living room must also serve as the dining area. However, you can easily serve the majority of the family's meals in the good sized breakfast room and reserve the living-dining room for more formal occasions.

Whether you're the lady of the house, or just another member of the family who builds "The Buick", you'll appreciate the abundance of centrally located closets in this house. Including the spacious broom closet in the laundry/utility room, there are nine closets in this one story house; they're all placed so that you can conveniently store things away and can easily lay your hands on the stored articles when you want them.

Cross ventilation and good lighting help to make both bedrooms very pleasant and comfortable. The den or bedroom, which also can serve as a guest room, receives plenty of light and ventilation from two windows in the front wall. As a matter of fact, every room in "The Buick" reaps the benefits of good lighting and ventilation.

If you merely build the house proper, you will not have sufficient space for a first floor laundry; then, of course, you can have the laundry installed in the basement. It should be placed under the kitchen or bathroom. Should you prefer a detached garage to the attached one illus-

Nearly Full Flow of Water Restored Late Yesterday Afternoon

Nearly a full flow of water surged through the city gravity main again at 3:45 p. m. yesterday after the supply had been reduced to a trickle since about 9:30 in the morning.

H. W. Heideman, city manager, said the stop in flowage may have been caused by an underground break in the main. He was unable to explain why the water suddenly began flowing again late in the afternoon but surmised that sand or mud causing a block may have broken free.

Several surveys of the gravity main area between Intake Park and the city reservoir on Weston avenue failed to locate a break. Most of the main is underground and a subterranean break would not be easy to find unless escaping water bubbled to the surface.

children returned Wednesday afternoon from Detroit, where they were called by the death of Mr. Foder's brother.

Heideman said. A small flowage through the main continued during the day but it was insufficient to maintain municipal pressure or fill the water tower tank. At noon the city fire truck pumper was put into service, taking water from the Manistique River flume and forcing it into a surge tank near the pumping station. Two lines were used until 2:30 p. m. at which time two more lines were added.

Operation of the pumper was discontinued when heavy flowage started through the gravity line later in the day. During the period when gravity main flowage was retarded, city pressure fell and water came from consumer taps only in limited quantity.

Early in the afternoon a radio appeal was made asking consumers to limit consumption to conserve pressure.

Nearly two years ago the gravity main burst, depriving the city of water for several hours.

Automobiles now can be equipped with white sidewall tires which will not be scuffed by rubbing against the curb. The sidewalls are protected by a projecting rib around the side of the tire.

Marines Injured But 'Look Fairly Good'

"Injuries have hurt Marinette but they looked fairly good against Shawano in their opener, although they lost 65-52," a veteran Maroon sports observer commented, this morning as the Escanaba Eskimos made ready to entertain the Wisconsin team tonight at Junior High gym.

He was referring to injuries suffered by Charles Voskamp and Roland Baumgarten in a recent hayride accident in Marinette, and injuries suffered by Richard Pichette and Pat McAuliffe during the high school football season.

If none of the above named players see action, Coach Bruce Basler will be losing a lot of height, Voskamp and McAuliffe are both 6-4 while Baumgarten and Pichette stand an even six-feet.

Marine Starters
Probable starters for the Marines are Paul Thomsen, 6-2 center, Donald Lund (5-10) and Ron Meyer (5-9) at forwards, Jon Hanson (5-11) and Tom Wallfred (5-11) at guards. Other members of the travelling squad are Roger Peters, Dino Georgalan, Dick LaPerriere, Carl Sievert and Kent Ziemann.

Marinette is a new foe for the Escanaba cagers. The Marines have lost their only start this season as have the Eskimos.

New coach Burt Gustafson hadn't decided on his starting lineup this morning. Fred Boddy is set at center, John Peterson and Dick Peterson at forwards—but the guard spots were still vacant. In contention for starting nooses were Tom Gregoire, Bill LeMire, Jim Bolm and George Bartley. All saw action in the game last week against St. Joe.

Former Veterans
The Eskimos lack game experience in most spots with only Boddy and John Peterson back from last year's team. Bartley also saw

Indians Fight 'Canvas Battle'

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians, still smarting from the "Canvas Battle" in St. Louis, are going to propose that all games go the full nine innings.

Hank Greenberg, Tribe general manager, said the proposal would be made at the Major League meeting next week in Phoenix.

At present a rained out game is "complete" if five innings are played.

The Indians asserted last season that the St. Louis crowd figured in a game the Browns won from the Indians, trailing at the end of the fifth, the Tribe went ahead in the top of the sixth.

Rain fell before the home team got its licks that inning and the game was called later because of wet grounds.

Cleveland claimed the canvas put down after the first half of the sixth was leaky.

Greenberg said, "We want to do away with all suspended games. Each game should go the full nine innings. Baseball is the only sport I know that isn't always played to a conclusion."

action last year but was not a regular. Remainder of the squad was brought up from last year's reserves except Dick Peterson who did not play basketball last season.

Offensively the Escanaba attack centers around Boddy, All-U. P. selection last season. A smooth ball handler with quick hands, Boddy rates with the best floor-men in U. P. high school circles.

Boddy led Escanaba's scoring against St. Joe with 18 points. Big John Peterson contributed seven, next highest total.

Eskimo reserves are Arni Dunathan, Bill McGovern, Paul Menard, Pat McDonough and Paul Davidson.

The main game starts at 8:30 tonight. Coach Joe Milokna's Esky Bees will face the Marinette junior varsity team at 7.

Game officials are Norman Slough of Rapid River and Ray Ranguette of Manistique.

Attractive Grid Menu For Closing Saturday

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Army and Navy with President Truman watching the proceedings, hold the national collegiate football spotlight today as they clash for the 53rd time at Philadelphia. But several other gridiron precincts booked for action are sure to provide some interesting returns.

For in addition to the West Point-Annapolis struggle, Southern California, the West Coast's Rose Bowl representative, takes on upset-conscious Notre Dame at South Bend. Unbeaten Georgia Tech tangles with Georgia at Athens, Mississippi takes on Mississippi State at Oxford, Alabama meets Auburn at Birmingham and Tennessee and Vanderbilt get together at Nashville.

No. 1 Fan

President Truman will be one of 102,000 fans who will jam Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium to see the battle between the Army and the Navy goat. President-elect Eisenhower will join many more in watching the game on television. The telecast, via NBC, will get under way at 1:00 p. m., EST, with the game starting 30 minutes later.

Navy is tabbed a seven point favorite to record its third straight victory over the West Pointers. The Middies have won five games, lost two and tied one. Their most impressive successes came against Yale, Cornell and Duke.

Army has triumphed four times in eight games but the Cadets' morale received much-needed shot in the arm when they came from behind to beat Pennsylvania, the Ivy League champions, two weeks ago.

Southern California rates a touchdown edge over Notre Dame's Irish. But the Trojans aren't forgetting that Frank Leah's charges turned the tables on a previously unbeaten Oklahoma eleven three Saturdays ago. The latter part of the South Bend game will be televised via the NBC network. The cameras will pick up the action immediately following the Army-Navy tilt.

A victory for Georgia Tech over the Georgia Bulldogs will clinch the Southeastern Conference title for the Engineers. Tech, which will meet Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl game, has a 5-0 league slate.

Tennessee, unbeaten in four Southeastern Conference games, can take top honors should Georgia Tech falter and the Volunteers defeat Vanderbilt as expected. The Vols are headed for the Cotton Bowl at Dallas where they play Texas Jan. 1.

Alabama has some unfinished business with Auburn. But if they're not looking past today's encounter to their New Year's Day Orange Bowl game with Syracuse, the Crimson Tide should have an easy time of it.

Mississippi, ranked No. 6 in the Associated Press poll, can run into trouble against Mississippi State. Still Ole Miss appears to pack too much offensive strength for its arch rival.

The other games, which—to all intents and purposes—will wrap up the 1952 college football season, are Holy Cross-Boston college, New York University-Fordham, Louisiana State and Tulane, South Carolina-Wake Forest, Virginia-William and Mary, Florida State-Wofford, Rice and Baylor, Oklahoma A & M, Detroit-Houston, TCU-SMU, Tulsa-Texas Tech, Brigham Young and Temple State, West Texas State-Texas Western, Washington-Washington State, Colorado-Colorado A & M and Marquette and College of Pacific.

Hockey Fans Will Name All-Star Team Members

All Escanaba Hawk hockey fans are invited to participate in a fan poll to select the six Escanaba hockey players to play on the Northern Michigan League all-star team against the champion Portage Lake Pioneers on Marquette's artificial ice.

Originally set for Thursday night, Dec. 11, the game has been rescheduled for Saturday night, Dec. 13, to accommodate Doug Young, former Detroit Red Wing star and National Hockey League official, who was unable to make the Dec. 11 engagement.

Young will conduct a Northern Michigan League officials' clinic in the afternoon and officiate the all-star game in the evening. Escanaba will send two or three officials to the clinic which was organized this year to improve the caliber of officiating in the NM circuit.

Eighteen players from Escanaba, Marquette and Calumet will form the league all-star team to oppose the Bukovick-powered Pioneers. Six from each team will be selected by a fan poll in each team's respective area.

Escanaba Hawk fans are asked to vote for six players from the Escanaba lineup of last season. Each fan is requested to name the six players who are in his or her opinion the six best

Hawks of the 1951-52 season and to submit his list to the Sports Editor of the Escanaba Daily Press.

The votes may be mailed to the Sports Editor or delivered in person, but the vote must be signed by the person making the selection.

The six Escanaba players who receive the highest vote will represent this city on the all-star team. Voting will begin Monday, Dec. 1 and continue through Wednesday, Dec. 10.

Pro Grid Loops Still Knotted

NEW YORK (AP)—Four games will be played in the National Football League Sunday but only one thing is certain—not more than two teams will be tied for first place in the National Conference.

All four games have a direct bearing on the championship picture and it could well be that the day's play will end with the New York Giants, Cleveland Browns and the Philadelphia Eagles still tied for the lead in the American Conference.

But such is not the case in the National, where the Detroit Lions hold a half-game advantage over the San Francisco 49ers and the Los Angeles Rams.

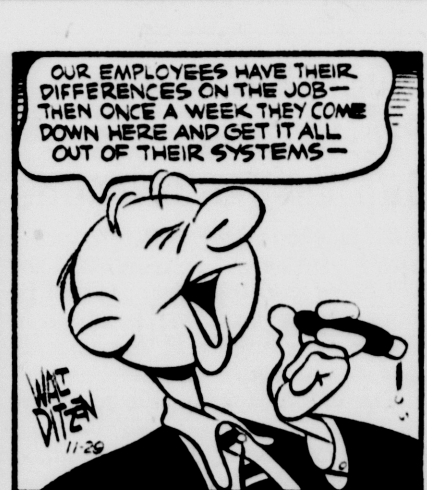

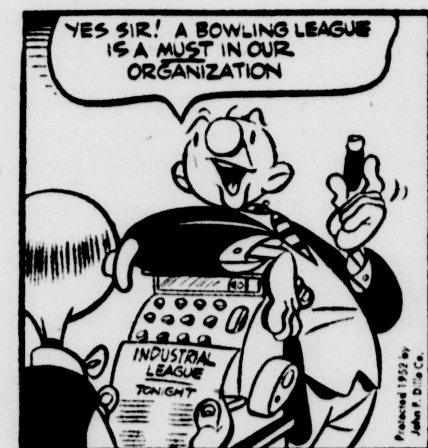

The 49ers and the Rams, who won the league title last year, will clash for the second straight week with the engagement scheduled before 60,000 fans at San Francisco's Kezar Stadium. A victory for either team will create a two-way deadlock with the Lions. But a tie—something unusual in the pro circuit—would give Detroit lone possession of the top spot.

To maintain the three-way tie at the head of the American division Cleveland will have to defeat the Redskins at Washington, the Giants will have to down the tough Steelers at Pittsburgh and the Eagles will have to take their second straight from the Cardinals at Chicago's Comiskey Park.

Navy Goat Tradition Is Now 62 Years Old

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—When Bill XII, Navy's mascot, is lead into Municipal Stadium at the start of today's Army-Navy game, it will make the 62nd year that a goat has served as a good luck charm for the Midshipmen.

Just 62 years ago to the day, Nov. 29, 1890, Navy played its first football game against Army at West Point. When the Naval Cadets as they were called then, were marching from the ferry station at Highland Falls, N. Y., to West Point, they noticed a goat outside a non-commissioned officer's quarters and "commandeered" him.

The current 'Bill' is a pure blue-angora goat, but the odor is unchanged.

Polio Hits Standlee, Captain of 49'ers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Polio has struck down Norm Standlee, fullback and team captain of the San Francisco 49'ers.

But, it was announced today, no team quarantine has been imposed and the 49er's crucial game with the Los Angeles Rams Sunday will go on as scheduled. Whichever team wins will vault into a first place tie with the Detroit Lions.

Standlee, nicknamed "Big Chief" because he played his college football with the Stanford University Indians, was confined Friday to the isolation ward in Children's Hospital here.

Doctors said the crippling disease was caught in its early stages, and Standlee is not in any immediate danger of permanent disability.

Lakers Win On Road As Well As At Home

(By The Associated Press)
Playing at home or on the road doesn't make much difference to the Minneapolis Lakers.

The Lakers increased their Western division lead Friday night by vanquishing Indianapolis 97-82 on the Olympians' home court. Thursday night, at home, Minneapolis routed the Olympians 90-69.

The taller Minneapolis club ran up a 47-33 halftime bulge. Indianapolis rallied in the third period to trail by five points but the Lakers immediately pulled away. George Mikan and Vern Mikkelsen each scored 21 points for the Lakers.

At Chicago, the Milwaukee Hawks edged the Philadelphia Warriors, 78-77, in a double overtime game. Don Otten, the Hawks' seven foot center, clinched the victory with five seconds left to play when he caged a free throw.

Andy Phillip Sold By Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Warriors have sold Andy Phillip to the Ft. Wayne, Ind. Pistons in the second step of a major rebuilding drive.

Owner—Coach Eddie Gottlieb said Friday he was reluctant to part with the 30-year-old Phillip, top playmaker in the National Basketball Association the past two years. But he hinted he needed the cash to complete one or two deals that are now on the fire.

No. 1 move in the Warrior rebuilding was the purchase last week of Mark Workman, 22-year-old, six-foot-nine center from the Milwaukee Hawks.

Phillip, former University of Illinois star, came to the Warriors after the Chicago Stags disbanded in 1950.

In Line For $10,000 Belt

ROCKY MARCIANO

(P Newsfeatures)

NEW YORK—Baseball will be hard-pressed to make it three straight $10,000 diamond belts when the final voting takes place early in January to decide the "professional athlete of the year."

Phil Rizzuto, Yankee shortstop, won the award in 1950 and last year it went to his teammate, Pitcher Allie Reynolds. The belt for the 1952 winner will be awarded in mid-January in Rochester, N. Y., by its donor, Ray Hickok.

TONY DESPIRITO

Bobby Shantz, the little southpaw with the Philadelphia Athletics, compiled a big score in being voted the American League's most valuable player, but in the diamond belt voting he will have strong competition. Shantz, the smallest player in the major leagues, won the August poll.

BOBBY SHANTZ

New world's heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, U. S. Open golf champion Julius Boros and Jockey Tony Despirito all figure to give Shantz a battle for the big prize. Marciano won the sports writers' poll in September by knocking out Champion Joe Walcott. Boros won in June when he won the Open in Texas and Despirito appears on his way to 400 winning mounts.

Rally Wins For John Gonsalves

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—Johnny Gonsalves was ready to park on lightweight champion Jimmy Carter's doorstep today following his come from behind victory over Orlando Zulueta.

The stringbean contender from Oakland, Cal., achieved two of his long sought goals—a Garden and national television show victory—when he edged Zulueta with a second half rally Friday night. That brought him closer to his third ambition, a title crack at Carter.

For a while it looked as if the 22-year-old, third-ranking contender was going down to defeat. He appeared awed and couldn't get going. By the end of the third round he was trailing badly and was cut under the right eye and over the left eye.

But the 135 1/4 pound youngster warmed up in the fourth round and from then on outscored his aggressive rival with flashy combination punches to gain the split decision. Referee Al Berl and Judge Arthur Aidala had him from, 6-3-1. Judge Jack Gordon scored for the 133-pound Cuban, 5-4-1. The card had Gonsalves the winner, 5-4-1.

There were no knockdowns in the battle of fancy boxing, light punchers.

The defeat snapped a six-right victory string for the Cuban. It was Gonsalves' sixth straight scrap without defeat. He's won five and drawn once.

Cribber Scandal Cut Army's Grid Forces

Navy Rates Solid Favorite

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The "cribbers" would have been seen this year, and if that famous—or infamous—episode in Army's football history never had taken place today's 53rd Army-Navy football game might be an entirely different affair.

As it stands, Navy's solid, well-coached team is a strong favorite to rack up its third straight victory in this ancient, colorful series. The odds-makers have established Navy as a seven-point favorite, about as big a margin as they'll allow in this always-unpredictable game.

But consideration of the teams' chances always goes back to the "scandal" which wiped out virtually the whole Army squad just before the start of the 1951 season. Army still is operating with the remnants of what might have been another great team. Navy, rebuilding its strength under the coaching of a hard-bitten ex pro,

Eddie Erdelatz, has come up with a team good enough to merit consideration for an Orange Bowl bid.

Former Stars

If Army had kept such players as Gibby Reich, Gene Filippski, Al Conway, J. D. Kimmel and Elmer Stout, who went on to win considerable glory at other institutions this year, the Cadets would be favored—but not by much.

The Army-Navy game always is that kind of a fracas—where the past performance charts are thrown into the discard and fired-up athletes play better than they know how.

That's one reason why today's game drew a capacity crowd of 102,000 into Philadelphia's Municipal stadium and why countless television fans were content to accept the compromise program by which only a few minutes of the Notre Dame-Southern California game were scheduled to go on the air after the end of the big game here.

Biggest Show

No other game can offer such a show—the march of 3,800 blue-clad midshipmen and 2,400 grey-garbed cadets into the stadium; the gathering of notables from President Truman on down and the colorful between-halves antics of the student bodies.

The game was scheduled to start at 1:30 p. m., EST. The parade into the stadium was to begin at noon—too early for the television audience.

Off the almost-meaningless records, the game figures to be a scoring race. Army as been blanked only once in eight games—by Southern California. And although Navy has the best defensive record in the East, the Cadets, with a spanking new attack devised by thoughtful Coach Earl Blaik, were expected to get at least one touchdown.

On the other hand, Army's rather porous and inexperienced defense isn't likely to bring Navy's three-way offense to a complete halt. Navy attacks from the straight T, split T and single wing formations. A year ago the Midshipmen sprang their version of the single wing—the old Notre Dame box—as a complete surprise and racked up two touchdowns before Blaik could call his inexperienced tackles to the bench to explain what was happening.

That lack of experience and confidence has been Army's biggest handicap this year, but at the same time it could be a source of upset spirit. When the Cadets trailed Penn 13-0 at half time, Blaik had to exercise all his half-time oratory to convince them they weren't a beaten team. They won that one, 14-13, and with an early break tomorrow they might get the feeling of invincibility.

Recount Ordered In Delta County

County Clerk Mary Constantineau was notified this morning that a recount of ballots cast for governor in the Nov. 4 election will be made in Delta county.

The county will be one of 56 Michigan counties in which Secretary of State Fred M. Alger Jr. is asking for a recount of the votes polled by him and Governor G. Mennen Williams in the close gubernatorial contest.

Collect Ballot Boxes
Harold E. Bradshaw, deputy Secretary of State, in his wire to the county clerk, ordered that sealed ballot boxes now being kept at the 31 precincts of Delta county be collected and gathered for the recount which is expected to be made here next week.

After the first count of the ballots Williams was found to have defeated Alger by a slim margin of 8,618 ballots.

Yesterday Alger asked the state board of canvassers for a repolling of 1,571 of Michigan's 4,478 precincts. Following that Williams requested the recount of the remainder of the precincts, excluding those where votes are counted by polling machines.

Brake Directs Recount
The 56 counties covered in Alger's request were all those which went Democratic by 51 per cent or more.

The recount machinery is under the direction of D. Hale Brake, acting chairman in place of Alger who was disqualified because the recount involves an office for which he was a candidate.

Windup Hunting Fatal To Seven

(By The Associated Press)
Michigan counted a sudden new series of seven hunter deaths in its deer season today, bringing the total of 31.

As experts had feared, a sudden rise in the fatality toll accompanied the start of the three-day period thrown open to unrestricted shooting of the deer herd.

Two hunters were shot to death. Five others died of heart attacks.

The season's death toll: gunfire 11, heart attacks 18, drownings two.

State police and conservation men had feared a rise in the death rate among hunters with a new outpouring of game-seekers to the woods.

The season closes tomorrow. Over the last three days does and fawns may be shot as well as bucks.

New gunfire victims included Edward Porter, 41, of Muskegon, father of six children, and Franklin Hinman, 21, of Unionville.

Hinman was found dead in Foster township of Ogenaw county. He had bled to death. A gunshot from an unknown hunter had severed an artery in his leg.

Porter was shot in the neck, also by an unidentified hunter. He was shot as he sat in his tent in camp in Lake county. He was hunting with his brother, Irwin.

School Ordered To Take Indians

PIERRE, S. D. (AP)—The St. Charles school district today was under state orders to provide educational facilities for Indian children.

Harold S. Freeman, South Dakota state superintendent of schools, said Friday he had sent a letter to the district warning of court action unless his order was heeded.

The problem arose as result of closing of a school operated by the U. S. Indian Service in the St. Charles area. The school board there said there were not facilities or teachers enough to handle the estimated added load of 23 pupils in the public school.

Heated language resulted when the Indians attempted to enter the St. Charles school early in the fall and were turned away. Since, these children have been attending classes conducted by the Rev. Ralph E. Villwock, an Xavier mission priest who has had no formal teacher training.

Freeman asked that the St. Charles School Board advise him by Monday whether the directive had been carried out. St. Charles is a tiny hamlet near the Nebraska border.

New Car Is Stolen Twice Within Week

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Harry Levine is beginning to wonder whether he or the guy that's stealing it is getting the most use of his new car.

He bought the car a week ago last Thursday. On Saturday it was stolen from in front of his home. Recovered on Wednesday, it disappeared again last night.

Harry says if he gets it back this time, he's going to keep it in a garage when it's not in use—a garage with a lock, that is.

Rock

Boys In Service
ROCK—Sgt. Harold Heikkila, who recently completed a year of overseas service in Korea, arrived home on Thursday morning and spent Thanksgiving Day at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Heikkila. Sgt. Heikkila entered the Army two years ago and received an honorable discharge this past week at Camp McCoy, Wis.

Airman, 1st Class Edwin Kivioja, who is presently enjoying a 30-day furlough, met Sgt. Heikkila unexpectedly in Japan and the two Rock boys boarded the same troop ship which was bound for the States. Airman Kivioja, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leander Kivioja, has a two-year service record, half of it being spent overseas.

Farewell Party
The Rock Royal Neighbors met for a farewell meeting at the home of Mrs. Ona Hunt on Monday evening, November 24. Games were played and a pot-luck lunch was served. Mrs. Hunt, a long time resident of Rock, moved to Gwinn this week where she will live with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bjork.

Briefs
Les Larson, Eugene Falck, and Leo Kulkki, new members of the Elks Club in Escanaba, attended an initiation meeting at the club Wednesday evening. Elks Herb Westlund and Frank Campbell of Rock also were present on this occasion.

Frank Campbell left on Friday for a weekend trip to Sault Ste. Marie where he will attend a cabinet meeting of U. P. Lions in District 9 and 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Alden Trombly of Munising spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Heikkila of Rock.

The Rock Lions will meet at the Club House on Monday, Dec. 1 at 8 p. m.

Gas Fumes Affect 26 In Wichita, Kan. Store

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—At least 26 persons were hospitalized yesterday after gas fumes seeping through the heating system of a crowded downtown store made scores of employees and shoppers ill and caused a near-panic in a sudden rush for the exits.

None of those hospitalized was in serious condition. Some victims were given oxygen and artificial respiration outside the store. Seven ambulances converged on the scene.

Business at the two-story Sears Roebuck retail store was resumed after the fumes were dispelled. Fire Chief Elgin Wood said a gate in the exhaust pipes of the heating plant had been open, permitting exhaust fumes to enter the hot air system.

Silence Disturbing In Political Ranks; Nothing About Mess

By JACK I. GREEN
LANSING (AP)—Come to think of it, we haven't heard the phrases "mess in Washington" and "fumbling" for several weeks now.

Fred M. Alger Jr., hasn't called Gov. Williams a "liar" for nearly 30 days. Williams hasn't had a thing to say recently about the "Big Three" of the auto industry trying to dominate government.

It must be the campaign is over. It went on so long and got so noisy that the silence now is kind of disturbing. But gradually we get accustomed to it—and the campaign begins to take on a kind of a romantic and pleasant aura. You

Bribery Suspected In Gangster Case

scribed in the committee report as "personal" friends, respectively, of President Truman and Tom C. Clark, then attorney general and now a Supreme Court justice.

These attorneys, the committee said, were "in a position to exert influence with those in authority." However, he report said there was no evidence President Truman "had any knowledge of the matter."

The ex-gangsters became eligible for parole after serving one-third of their 10-year sentences, and were released by the U. S. Parole Board about a month after the eligibility date. Shortly before they were freed, the Justice Department dismissed an additional mail fraud indictment against the four, describing it as "duplicating" the extortion indictment under which the convictions were obtained.

Paroles Revoked
The paroles were revoked after the House committee demanded that action. Lengthy litigation thereafter resulted in Ricca, Compagna and Gioe going free on habeas corpus writs. Compagna's case went up to the Supreme Court where on a 4-4 split, the government lost its fight to re-imprison him.

The whole thing popped back into the spotlight early this month when a telegram went out from the Justice Department to Chicago Dist. Atty. Otto Kerner. The telegram instructed Kerner to abandon efforts to get Ricca back behind bars through appealing a Chicago federal judge's ruling that there was no evidence to support revocation of his parole.

McGranery announced those instructions were not cleared with him and ordered the case pressed to appeal, if it wasn't too late.

Elephants Expensive
Could it be told now just how much money and many smart press agents the GOP wasted trying to get hold of an elephant to smuggle into the crowds surrounding Harry here and there?

Whatever became of Alger's plan for solving the state's deficit?

Why was it they always played the University of Michigan's "Victors" at every political rally, but only once—close beside a railway siding in Highland Park—did they ever play Michigan State's "Fight Song." Ain't the Spartans citizens, too?

They say that the Filipino citizens of Detroit gathered en masse to hear Williams late in the campaign, but were considerably puzzled to hear the governor come out roundly for making the Philippines our 49th state.

Traffic Takes 144 Lives In October, State Police Report
LANSING (AP)—October traffic in Michigan took a toll of 144 lives, four less than the same month in 1951, the state police reported today.

Completing compilation of accident reports, the police also announced there were 4,183 injuries in October, an increase of 47 over October, 1951, and 13,171 accidents, a decrease of 621.

Navy's Guided Missile Story Cruel Hoax, Says Writer For Air Force

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Arthur F. Kelly of the Air Force Association charged today the Navy pulled off the "publicity stunt of the year" last September in reporting the combat use of guided missiles.

Writing in Air Force Magazine, an unofficial publication, Kelly cited news stories he said described as "the first take-off of a guided missile in actual combat" the bombing of North Korean targets by unmanned, electronically controlled fighter-planes.

False Hopes Raised
Kelly called this a "cruel hoax to play on the American family" and said it raised false hopes that the age of pushbutton warfare had arrived.

He said the Air Force used un-piloted radio-controlled bombers against German targets during World War II and flew them twice as far with nine times the bomb-load as the Navy did in its launch Sept. 5 from the U. S. carrier Boxer.

Kelly said the Navy censored from the original news report, delayed until Sept. 17, the designation of the aircraft used, an out-moded Grumman Hellcat, and substituted the term "guided missile."

Air Force Magazine's Managing Editor John F. Loosbrook, writing in the same issue, said "Exercise Mainbrace" last September cast grave doubts on the effectiveness of aircraft carriers.

Loosbrook said the maneuver, conducted off Scandinavia by ships of the North Atlantic Treaty nations, was designed partly to show carriers could adequately defend NATO's northern flank. Instead, he said:

"Mainbrace exposed serious flaws in our whole philosophy of naval warfare, flaws which will be very difficult to explain away."

The operation, Loosbrook wrote, demonstrated carriers' vulnerability to mechanical failures, submarine and air attack and bad weather. Other drawbacks, he said, were excessive cost, the need for frequent refueling and questionable ability to perform effectively in "the windswept, shallow and enclosed North Sea."

As if in reply, meanwhile the official "Naval Aviation News" declared the aircraft carrier is essential to control of the sea, although both land and carrier based planes are needed to wage war successfully.

Nothing New Proven
The Navy magazine said land bases are large fixed targets while carriers are smaller and elusive. It added that carriers can concentrate more planes over any naval targets than can be mustered from scattered shore bases.

Kelly said Loosbrook's analysis strongly suggests the need for "re-evaluation of the carrier task force as a full-fledged weapons system."

Kelly, a vice president of Western Air Lines, Los Angeles, said in his article that the Boxer's launching of pilotless planes "proved nothing that hadn't been proved before." He added:

"They were public relations missions pure and simple—and expensive ones, at that."

A Navy spokesman said Sept. 18 that the Hellcat robots were only experimental and makeshift guided missiles. He said better ones were being developed.

the recount, apparently the same as worked out arduously two years ago.

The exact date of the recount has not been fixed, but board members indicated it would be sometime in the week starting Dec. 1.

Two years ago it started Dec. 2 in Wayne County. A schedule was established starting the big counties first and then the smaller counties so that all would end at about the same time.

The fact that neither Alger nor Williams plans to include voting machine precincts may speed the recount. Officials said this eliminates the necessity for counting teams going around to each voting machine.

Wayne Biggest Job
Alger's petition covered 1,120 of the 1,831 Wayne county precincts, the biggest recounting job in the state.

In all, Alger covered 56 counties—all precincts which went Democratic by 51 per cent or more, he said.

Alger said the recount was requested "in justice to the 1,400,000 citizens who voted for me, the Republican party, and particularly the many who labored so loyally in my campaign organization."

Noting that he lost in the official count by "less than one third of one per cent of the total vote," Alger said:

"The next two years will be among the most crucial in Michigan history. We face a fiscal crisis which threatens to close down the schools and impede operations of other essential functions of government. Under such circumstances, Michigan cannot afford to seat a governor whose title to the office is questionable, in even the slightest degree. A recount is the only means by which clear title can be established."

Both Charge Errors
Williams greeted the recount decision with the statement that it will give the people "a second review of how the state's election machinery has been functioning under existing laws."

"Apparently," Williams said, "it has not been functioning perfectly and for that reason I have appointed an election study commission to determine how existing law and administration can be improved so that the will of the people can be recorded with the utmost facility and security."

Alger said he did not charge any fraud in the election, but various types of counting and tabulating errors.

The state board rejected Alger's request for a canvass of the vote in all 83 counties. The board said it had no power to order that.

Because Alger, as chairman of the board, is personally involved in the recount, the board named State Treasurer D. Hale Brake senior member, as acting chairman.

wanted for questioning.

A tip that the 48-year-old killer of 21 years ago was hiding in a house at Tucson, some 121 miles south east of Phoenix, caused some excitement last night.

Saved From Gallows

Police surrounded the house, but were unable to enter without a warrant. A search of the premises after the owner returned ended the vigil. There was no sign of the missing woman.

Mrs. Judd was committed to the state hospital in 1931 after an 11th-hour appeal saved her from the gallows. She had been convicted of killing Agnes Ann Le Roi and Hedvig Samuelson in a jealous rage over a mutual suitor.

She dismembered their bodies and sent them to Los Angeles in a trunk and suitcases.
